

Administrative Law

Licensing and Disciplinary Counsel

The attorneys at Conroy Simberg counsel and defend clients facing serious licensing and disciplinary matters. Our administrative law attorneys primarily represent physicians, nurses, dentists and other health care providers in state administrative hearings and appeals, including cases before the Florida Department of Health and the Florida Agency for Health Care Administration. We also represent health care professionals nationwide when disciplinary actions involve the professional licensing boards of other states.

Our attorneys have a keen insight into administrative processes and procedures. We understand how state agencies operate when they are investigating claims of professional misconduct and initiating disciplinary action against health care professionals. The legal professionals in our administrative law practice include seasoned malpractice attorneys with extensive experience advising and defending health care professionals. Our attorneys have a comprehensive understanding of the healthcare industry and the many the rules and regulations governing the practice of health care providers.

Protection For HealthCare Professionals

The legal team at Conroy Simberg appreciates that a great deal is at stake in cases involving allegations of professional misconduct, including violations of the rules governing the practice of medicine or dentistry. Health care practitioners can be subject to serious disciplinary actions, including the suspension of a license or a complete ban from the future practice of medicine. Our lawyers are committed to helping practitioners resolve disciplinary cases as quickly as possible, while preventing or limiting any harmful effects to their professional reputations.

Regardless of whether the case is simple or complex, professionals facing licensing and disciplinary actions are often under extraordinary stress. The lawyers that comprise our administrative law group understand that each case is unique and are committed to delivering the personalized service and attention that every client deserves.
