Environmental

Conroy Simberg is a premier civil defense firm widely recognized for its skilled and diverse environmental liability defense practice. Our attorneys are familiar with complex environmental issues and have an in-depth understanding of the confusing array of federal, state and local environmental laws and regulations. They use this knowledge and experience to represent individuals and professionals facing environmental-related claims, including:

- Property owners
- Business operators
- Tenants
- Manufacturers
- Distributors
- Insurance carriers
- Municipalities

Our broad-based civil defense practice makes our firm well-positioned to counsel and defend clients facing many different environmental claims, ranging from chemical exposure, pollution and groundwater contamination to container and storage tank spills and explosions. When handling these complex cases, our attorneys collaborate across our firm's diverse of practice groups, working as a cohesive team to resolve liability claims as quickly and effectively as possible.

Personalized Service and Attention

Conroy Simberg was founded on the principle that all clients deserve personalized service and attention. Our legal professionals are committed to developing strong working relationships with each of our clients. When handling an environmental claim, our attorneys take the time to learn about our client's business operations and important needs, goals and objectives. We strive to keep our clients informed at all stages of the legal process and work to ensure that they understand all of the laws, regulations and legal precedents that may impact their case.

At Conroy Simberg, we know that a great deal is at stake when a client is facing an environmental-related liability claim. We understand that these types of cases not only impact our clients' finances and activities, but they can also harm important business relationships and professional reputations. Our attorneys are focused on resolving these claims as early on in the process as possible.

While we aim to avoid litigation, we are prepared to aggressively represent clients throughout all court and administrative processes, including appeals. Our firm's litigation strategies are designed to present the best legal defenses possible, while minimizing the costs, business interruptions and damages associated with complex environmental liability cases.