Office Location: Dahlonega, GA

An attorney in the firm's Dahlonega office Adam provides liability defense for both individual and commercial interests, and also professional licensing defense in regulatory matters before state licensing boards and federal oversight agencies.

Adam was a critical care registered nurse prior to attending law school. While in law school, Adam clerked for the Civil Divisions of the United States Attorney's Office in both the Middle District of Georgia, and Eastern District of Tennessee, where he focused on defending Federal Tort Claims Act actions in the healthcare sector. After graduating from Mercer University School of Law, cum laude, Adam was eager to earn jury trial experience and earned a reputation for securing favorable jury verdicts in "unwinnable" criminal defense and licensing defense matters across Georgia. Adam maintains licensure as a Registered Nurse with eNLC privileges in Georgia. He earned a Bachelor of Science in Nursing, magna cum laude, from Tennessee Wesleyan College.
