- Fraud/Misrepresentation
- Tortious Interference with Business Relationships
- Conspiracy
- Assault and Battery
- Civil Theft and RICO

Analyzing and Evaluating Complex Intentional Tort Claims

The attorneys at Conroy Simberg know that lawsuits involving intentional torts can seriously impact a company's finances and business operations. These claims also have the potential to damage an organization's professional reputation and position within the marketplace.

When handling an intentional tort case, our lawyers remain sensitive to our clients' needs and concerns. We take the time to answer our clients' questions and make certain that they fully understand the laws, regulations and legal developments that may have a bearing on their case.

Conroy Simberg appreciates that intentional tort claims often involve sophisticated and diverse legal issues. Our firm has assembled a skilled team of partners and associates with decades of experience analyzing and evaluating complex intentional tort cases. These attorneys thoroughly investigate each case, carefully examining all issues surrounding the claim, including insurance coverage questions, liability determinations, and potential exposure associated with compensatory and punitive damage claims.

Our intentional torts practice group works directly with our clients, regularly providing them with timely reports and claims evaluations so that they have the information they need to make well-founded decisions regarding their case.

Reaching an Early Resolution

The lawyers working in our intentional tort practice group focus on resolving liability claims as early on as possible. Our firm recognizes that the costs associated with lengthy trials can be substantial and that courtroom battles can seriously disrupt business operations. We focus on avoiding litigation by negotiating settlements whenever possible. A cost-effective way to resolve disputes is through mediation and arbitration, which our attorneys employ whenever possible to resolve liability claims.

When a case cannot be resolved through these methods, we will vigorously defend clients at all stages of the litigation process. Our lawyers are seasoned litigators with decades of experience representing clients in federal and state courts, including all levels of appeal. They take the time to explain legal procedures to our clients and collaborate with them to develop strategies and approaches aimed at limiting exposure while containing the costs associated with this type of litigation.
